Training in participatory inquiry on climate change and migrations in Sudan

ADESFA Project (Aid to the Development of French Higher Education in Africa)

CliMigraForm is an ADESFA project (2020-2022). Its objective is the training in inquiry on two contemporary major issues in Sudan: climate crises and migration flows. Implemented by a French-Sudanese teaching team, it involves civil society actors through a participatory approach for knowledge production.

The project is based on a partnership between University Paris 8 Saint Denis (France) and University of Khartoum (Sudan).

TRAINING SESSIONS for fieldwork, are at the core of this pedagogic participatory project. Matching French and Sudanese students (Master and PhD), and civil society actors, they will be held in 2021 in urban (Spring) and rural (Autumn) context.

Burri, a neighborhood in central Khartoum, has been chosen for the 1st Training Session in March. The historical presence of urban agriculture on the Blue Nile, the recent (2019) episodes of floods, the variety of social composition and in individual and collective mobilities, the existence of a dense network of local associations, makes this place an ideal site for the objectives of the project.
